Presented by psychology professor and neuroscientist Dr. Lisa Feldman Barrett in her best-selling book How Emotions Are Made (affiliate link), it also contradicts many of our most firmly held ideas about how human emotions work. For example, it argues that: Emotions are not hard-wired in an ancient, "reptilian" part of the brain

How Emotions Are Made: The Secret Life of the Brain by ...

Emotions feel automatic to us; that's why scientists have long assumed that emotions are hardwired in the body or the brain. Today, however, the science of emotion is in the midst of a revolution on par with the discovery of relativity in physics and natural selection in biology.

How Emotions Are Made

Dr. Barrett does such a great job in explaining how our brain works and how emotions are made. Emotions are created by our brain. Neuroscience research in past decades has shown that emotions do not have 'fingerprints' in the brain. Different networks in the brain can create the same emotion. And yes, emotions are created by our brain.
