~~Thin Air The Most Chilling~~

THIN AIR by Michelle Paver is an intricate, historically accurate account of a mountaineer haunting on Kangchenjunga, the third highest peak on earth. It definitely sets the tone of the day (circa 1935), and the author does an excellent job on breathing life and realism into the characters and landscape.

~~Thin Air: The most chilling and compelling ghost story of ...~~

The plot of Thin Air is undeniably gripping and a genuine page-turner. After finding herself mesmerised by the history, vastness and the terrifying solitude of the Himalayas, Paver used it as the setting for this undeniably gripping account of a 1935 expedition up Kangchenjunga.

Michelle Paver's Dark Matter is one of my favourite ghost stories, but I admit, when I heard about Thin Air, I had doubts that she could recreate the same magic. The story just sounded too similar - Dark Matter was about a group of five men embarking on an Arctic expedition in the 1930s; Thin Air is about a group of five men embarking on a mountain-climbing expedition in the 1930s - and I ...
